TELEGRAPHIC.

The storm yesterday having prostrated all the telegraph wires, we received no dispatches last night.

CITY NEWS.

We have neglected calling the attention of our readers to the advertisement of the Wheeler & Wilson sewing machine; but in so doing we feel that we have been less remiss than though it had been other and less popular establishments, for the notoriety of these instruments and the reputation of the gentlemen agents in this city are too widely known to require comment.

Messrs. Sumner & Co. have been established in our city for the sale of this wonderful invention for upwards of ten years, and we are confident that none of their patrons can complain that they have not in all cases fulfilled their contracts. Knowing that their machine is the best, they have always warranted them for three years. We understand that numerous orders have already been placed upon file for machines for Christmas presents, and we can imagine nothing more appropriate, useful or beautiful, and we would advise our friends to make choice early, to insure prompt delivery and avoid disappointment. But it is useless to try to add to the world-wide reputation of the Wheeler & Wilson machine, for the press in all parts of the world has eulogized this greatest benefactor of the age.

The English press is continually writing upon this exultant subject, and we learn that, as was expected, one of the last steamers from Europe brought the intelligence that the highest premium has been awarded at the great fair held in Königsberg, Prussia, over all competition. In fact, to insist upon the superiority of this machine, we fear we would be like trying to convince our readers that gold is better than counterfeit coin. Still the sewing machine is a noble theme, and the more it is discussed the sooner the wants of the female portion of the human race will be satisfied.

We would advise all our readers to call and examine this machine, whether they wish to purchase or not, at their sales room No. 1 Masonic Temple, which, by the way, is the most elegant and tasteful of buildings in the city. In Kentucky, where will always be found those who are happy to explain and exhibit "The Ladies Friend."

A TALE OF ROMANCE—A YOUNG LADY ELOPES WITH AN OLD MAN—A tale of romance in real life of unusual interest has just been brought to light, the particulars of which, as near as we can learn them, are as follows: On Thursday night a beautiful young lady, not over 18 years of age, who resided in St. Louis, Mo., left the home of her parents, taking with her a trunk containing a large sum of money, and came in the direction of this city. As soon as the errand daughter was missed the telegraph was brought into requisition, and yesterday a dispatch was received in this city to apprehend the daughter and have her imprisoned. For some time since a man of middle age, who had the general appearance of being a man of means and a gentleman, had been paying his attentions to this young lady, but her parents, not thinking that the man was all right, refused to allow her to receive his visits any longer. After this refusal the parties had several secret meetings, and on the night the young lady was missed the parties eloped together. We are informed that on yesterday morning, the young lady, with her aged paramour, passed through this city before the dispatch from St. Louis was received, leaving at 7 o'clock on the train for Nashville. A report of the young lady arrived in this city yesterday, in search of the seducer of his sister, and he declares that he will follow him to the end of the world but that he will be revenged. As the parties are highly connected we suppress their names.

WE dropped into the elegant and extensive jewelry and optical establishment of Messrs. Cook & Goodman, No. 492 Third street, between Jefferson and Green, where we witnessed one of the most magnificent and extensive assortments that has ever been offered to a Louisville public. Their assortment of gold and silver watches, clocks, diamond sets, optical instruments, silver and plated ware, is one of the finest and most beautiful ever offered in this city. J. W. Cook, one of the firm, is a practical optician, and has a large and extensive variety of spectacle glasses, opera and field glasses, telescopes and stereoscopes, and warrants all work done in this establishment. They have also a splendid assortment of articles that are just the thing for a holiday present. See advertisement in another column of to-day's paper.

MIDDLETON'S BEAUTIFUL PORTRAITS OF GEORGE WASHINGTON, MARTHA WASHINGTON, ANDREW JACKSON, HENRY CLAY AND DANIEL WEBSTER—Mr. James Higgins, agent for the sale of these beautiful portraits, is now canvassing the city for subscribers. They are real masterpieces of art, and as the holidays will soon be here, we think no more appropriate present can be selected. Specimens of the pictures can be seen by addressing a note to Mr. Higgins, P. O. box 915. No orders will be taken after the 1st of January, 1864, in this city.

The Lexington Observer and Reporter of yesterday says that General Cox, instead of making his headquarters in that city, as was announced some days since, has left for Knoxville, where he takes command of the Twenty-first army corps, in place of General Harshbarger. The military district of the Ohio no longer exists.

AMUSEMENTS.

WOOD'S THEATER—Mr. Edwin Adams. This celebrated young tragedian highly gains popularity, and deservedly so. His performance of "Richard the Third" was a most successful one, and he appears on Monday evening in a character particularly adapted to his style of acting—"Robert Langdon." In the thrillingly performed drama of the "Dead Heart"—performed by him in Philadelphia and Boston with the greatest success, and which has been the talk of the city with most exciting and appalling incidents, giving a correct illustration of the fearful horrors of the battle, the horrible blood of Paris, the revolution and its attendant spirit—the guillotine. It will convey to the beholder the reality of these frightful imaginings, and will be a most successful and profitable drama. It will be a source of gratification to our numerous readers to learn that the charming actress, Miss Vestral, remains with us one week longer. She appears Monday night in "Romeo," in Shakespeare's great play of "Romeo and Juliet," a character in which she is said to have no superior. This is positively the last week of her engagement, and those who have not seen her should not fail to attend.
